Alumni Day June 10 Banquet and Dance

Class Day Exercises and Baseball Games to Be Features of Day

Following several months of discussion, the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association of the Rhode Island State College at its meeting last evening in Providence voted unanimously to charge the feature event of the annual Alumni gathering during the Commencement Week in June from the noon-time luncheon to a supper-banquet followed by entertainment features and later by dancing.

Alumni Day this year will be Saturday, June 10. For those who come early in the day, there will be morning and afternoon features arranged for by Roland T. Pihl, '20, member of the Executive Committee, from North Dighton, Mass.

The class day exercises of the graduating class will be held "under the elms" at 2:30 on that afternoon, and at 4:00 there will be a baseball game between two alumni teams.

The alumni banquet will be served at 6:30 in the women's gymnasium in Lippitt Hall, which has recently been fitted up for that purpose.

In a recent poll of the alumni clubs in regard to the proposed change in the time for the alumni (Continued on Page 4)

Rams Victorious Over Brown, 44-23

Eddie Cox Stars as R. I. Hoopsters Win Before Large Crowd

It took Rhode Island State just about five minutes to get going against Brown last Thursday, but when it did begin to click, the Bears were much the worse off for it. Although they scored the first two baskets, the Bears were on the short end of a 44-23 score, being entirely out-classed by their South County rivals. A crowd of 1300, the largest at any game this season, witnessed the game at the Gym.

After Brown's short spurt in the opening half, the Rams began their great rally which continued throughout the game. With Cox and Donovan scoring fine shots, the half ended in State's favor, 26-13.

Continuing their rally, the Rams in the second half scored 18 points to their rivals' 10. The feature of the game was the spectacular playing of Cox, who was high scorer with 16 points.

Notice !

The Business Department of the Beacon requests that each house — fraternity, sorority, or dormitory — on the campus and off the campus, will regularly send a Freshman down to the Lodge on Thursday evenings between 7 o'clock and 7:30 for its own allotment of Beacors. Attention to this matter by the house president or other responsible officer of the group will be a very great help to the Business Department.

Off campus groups are especially urged to take some responsibility in this matter. If your home group is not sufficiently organized — this pertains to some of the off-campus dormitories especially — so that a man can be sent for the group, make some arrangement with the Business Department for securing your copies.

Conn. Games at Storrs Saturday

Hectic Battles Expected; Last Home Game With Worcester Wednesday

This Saturday three Rhode Island State basketball teams will make their appearance at Storrs. Besides the Rams' and Ramlets' games, Theta Chi, inter-fraternity champions, will play the non-fraternity, five of Conn., who were winners of the intra-mural league at that college.

The last encounter between the two varsity quintets was one of the wildest basketball games played between R. I. and Conn., and there have been plenty of wild games. The Rams won 41-29, but from rumors from Storrs, the Connecticut team expects to reverse the tables on their home court. However, the Rhody basketballers, who have won their last six games, are not letting up on their practice. Coach Keaney is driving his men at a fast pace in order to end their season in a blaze of victories.

The probable line-up will find Eddie Cox, outstanding co-captain, and "Red" Kilroy at the forward positions, Reggie Horseman at center and Jack Donovan and Joe Speckman at guards.

The Freshmen five, who received their first setback of the season at the hands of the Northeastern Frosh last Saturday, will go after the Connecticut yearlings to convince their coach that they can still play basketball. Among the Ramlets to make the trip are Martin, Crockett, Entin, Remberdt, Keaney, Mantenuto, Carter, and D'Entremont.

The last home game of the season will be played next Wednesday evening with Worcester Tech.

Reception Room Now Open at Davis

Decorative Scheme Is Shades of Red With Panelled Walls

The reception room of Davis Hall which has recently been re-decorated by Herbert Coe of the Hobart-Howarth Company of Boston is now the equal if not the superior of any room of its kind on the campus.

Miss Helen E. Peck, Dean of Women, issued a statement this week to the effect that it was Mr. Coe's intention to take the large bare room — complicated by a large pillar in the middle — and make a small-looking room.

This effect has been created by using panelled chocolate brown walls, with light blue for the ceiling. Mr. Coe has used various shades of red, varying from crimson to raspberry. The feeling of over-crowdedness has been avoided by contrasted, overstuffed furniture with light, painted pieces.

Debating Trials Held in Lippitt

All Six Contestants Are Eligible to Take Part in Coming Debates

In preparation for the extensive schedule of the Men's Varsity Debating Squad, tryouts for additions to the squad were held last Monday night in Lippitt Hall.

Tim Toole, manager of the debating team, officiated as chairman for the evening. Rockafellow, Miss Dickson and members of the present team served as judges.

The contestants prepared five minute speeches on debatable subjects of their own choice.

The names of the speakers and their respective ratings follow:

Co-ed News

Rhody Sextet Wins 45-7

The Rhode Island State Co-ed Varsity basketball team won its second consecutive game last Saturday when it defeated the Y. W. C. A. group of Providence by a score of 45-7. Both teams played well and team work featured by local and opposing players constituted a well contested game. Helen Baker and "Charlie" Waters were the high scorers for Rhode Island, scoring 19 and 16 points respectively.

Rhody Defeats Northeastern U.

Ramlets Lose to Cubs in Preliminary Game; Martin Stars

RRHODY DEFEATS—P 1—C 4. Rhode Island State's basketball team scored its fifth straight triumph by defeating Northeastern at Boston by a 37-32 score. It was estimated that 1500 spectators witnessed the game.

The State Freshmen were beaten in the preliminary by the Northeastern Freshmen 36-33. This was the first defeat suffered by the Ramlets this season.

In the varsity game the Northeastern team got off to its usual start against Rhody by piling up a 9-0 score. During the remainder of the first quarter it took some excellent shooting by Kilroy and Horseman to tie the score at 11 all. Jim Federico, high scorer of last year's Freshman team, made his presence known just before the half ended by caging three successful baskets. The team left the floor with Rhode Island out in front 22-14.

Men's Glee Club Concert Friday

First Formal Concert of Year Features Double Quartet

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the Men's Glee Club of Rhode Island State College will present its first formal concert of the year under the direction of Frank J. Anthony at Edwards Hall. The program will consist of solos by Francis Christopher and David Espinoza; four numbers by the double quartet, and other selections to be rendered by the club. They will be accompanied by Harold Bernstein at the piano. The double quartet will consist of the following: Millman, Espinoza, Lind, Humenczyk, Welt, Christopher, Werner and Shutak.

Plans for concert tours throughout the state are being made by Matthew Millman, manager of the organization. The club gave informal concerts for the Dads at the banquet held for them at Lippitt Hall, and for the banquet of the Engineers of New England held at East Hall. The group was conducted by Howard Lind.

Theta Chi, Champs, Awarded Trophies

Frat Champs Expected to Play Teams from Other Schools Next Year

By virtue of their second victory over P. I. K. the Theta Chi Fraternity quintet was awarded two cups by President Bressler in assembly this week. The small cup is theirs permanently while the large Polygon cup must be won for three years.

Theta Chi won the championship last week when it defeated P. I. K., 27-22. At half time the score was 15-6 but the latter team closed right up, and only the fine shooting of Eddie Bastolla and Bunny Ralph sewed up the game. In the consolation game, Lambda Chi downed Alpha Tau Gamma, 31-27.

More than fifty dollars was taken in at the game and this money will be used by the Rhode Island Club for its banquet.

Next year it is planned to play off the league much earlier so that the winning team will be able to play the champions of interfraternity leagues at Brown and other colleges.

Beta Phi House To Hold Dance

Old Fashioned Costume Dance to Be Held on March 11

Beta Phi will hold its annual costume house dance on March 11. This year the dance will be in the form of an old fashioned saloon party with the "gay nineties" as the approximate time.

The patrons include Dr. and Mrs. Barlow, Miss Birch, Miss Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The ballroom will not be used for dancing, but rather for a haven between dances and at intermission. The dancing will take place in the combined lounging room and dining hall. A bar will be set up at one end of the room and refreshments will be served from this. Tables lighted by dimly glowing candles will line the sides of the hall. Posters and advertisements will be hung from the walls to aid in imitating the old time saloon.

Al Rosen and his Orchestra is the musical organization selected for the dance.

Football was abolished this year in favor of horseshoe pitching at Long Island University.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

The Beacon is the official publication of the student body of the Rhode Island State College. Think that over! Think about what it means! Like other college papers, The Beacon affords an "exhaust" by means of which the student body may "blow off steam" whenever it needs to. This is a good thing, both for the student body and the college, because it relieves the former and improves the latter. By giving free expression to the thoughts of the students, it clears their minds from the fog arising from stifled feelings, and at the same time focuses the attention of the faculty and the administration upon weaknesses and defects in the institution. We want to make this college the best in the country! But we can't do it without making changes. Changes cannot be made unless they are pointed out through criticism. So, be on the alert, fellow students! The Beacon wants to publish student criticism. It is one of the fundamental purposes of the paper.

The column headed "The Forum," which at times during the past year has appeared in The Beacon, exists precisely for the purpose of airing student views on questions of current interest affecting the whole student body. Make use of it. If you have a worthwhile opinion to express, by all means do so. Let your fellow students and the administration in on it. The Beacon only requires that all material published must be signed by the author when it is submitted. If the writer wishes to have his name withheld from the public, The Beacon will do so. The Beacon assumes no responsibility for articles written by others than members of the staff. It reserves the right, however, to change all articles that are incorrectly written.

Besides serving to express views and opinions regarding the general welfare of the students, The Beacon should also serve as a means of communication between the students, alumni, members of the faculty, and friends of the college. We members of the new Beacon Board will do our best to make it such. If mistakes are made—and we expect they will be—please bear with us. We are only novices, and The Beacon is still an amateur college publication. It does not profess to be a college daily "with its seven columns of real news, and needing nothing but a little murder to put it right in line with the big one-cent papers, the organs of one-cent opinion." It does pretend, however, to be a little bit better than the old time College Journal. "That poor maundering thing made its appearance at irregular intervals, emerging feebly like the Arctic sun from behind its cloud of debt, and containing nothing later in the way of 'news' than a disquisition on the art of William Shakespeare."

We take it for granted that the material we print is bound to offend someone—some of it at least. If and when it does, remember what Stephen Leacock says: "A college paper is under very peculiar temptations to indulge in the cheaper kinds of comicality. In the first place, its writers and its readers are for the most part in that early exuberant stage of life in which the boisterous assertion of one's own individuality is still only inadequately tempered by consideration for the feelings of others." We'll do our best, though, to offend no one. We will always be welcome to suggestions.

In conclusion, let's remember that The Beacon is a means of selling the college. There is no better way, perhaps, of putting this college across to the people of the State than through the medium of a wide-awake, effective student publication. Can the editors alone make it such a paper? They must of necessity have a great deal to do with its success, but it requires more than the editors' supervision. It requires the cooperation of every member of the student body! It is to be hoped that not only the students but the faculty and friends of the college will assist in making The Beacon the voice of the students and of the college, and not of a limited group. The Beacon is yours to do what you will with it. Your interest will be reflected in the issues of the paper during the coming year.

MELIORATION

Once a year, with high hopes and renewed courage, a new staff takes its place to fulfill the task of editing a Beacon that will be just a little better than those of former years. It is interesting to note the genuine enthusiasm which pervades the entire personnel of the working staff during the first few weeks on the new work. Each successive week acts as a negative factor on that zeal, and invariably the campus as a whole resigns itself to "just another year of Beacons!" The inspiration, labor, and worthwhile ability, which is the essence of a "good" paper, lacks impetus not so much for its own negligence or laxity, but because the student opinion and the encouragement that means so much to any extra-curricular activity is emphasized by its absence.

A new staff is beginning work now on The Beacon. Granted that the short-comings of this staff are many and that its abilities and talents are few, nevertheless the staff feels certain that given the same backing that is extended to an organization such as the Debating Club or Phi Delta, instead of that destructive criticism freely bestowed by unproductive students, the result would be a Beacon that would attain some proportion of the esteem that any college paper deserves. It is one thing for a student and pseudo-friend to sit back, with a Beacon between his hands, every Thursday evening and proceed to deliver an extemporaneous monologue on the defects of the college paper, but it is quite another thing to have that same student come to the Press Club and make some effort to better those defects. Constructive criticism is a Godsent aid to any paper, since it brings perfection just that much nearer, but destructive criticism is despicable and is practiced only by those parasitic observers who are incapable of any real solution!

You have a new staff of Beacon workers who are eager for your criticism, but let that criticism be of such nature that it will keep us, stimulate us, or inspire us. We are starting with renewed hope and rich enthusiasm. Is it too much to ask of the students of Rhode Island State College that they give us just ordinary respect—and a helping hand? If they persist in their unkindly fashion of tearing our work to pieces, at least they may allow us that thread of self-respect, namely, that we are at least trying. We do not ask that they cover our faults with apologies—that is not support!—but we do ask for a little encouragement that we may strive to give Rhody a paper equal to her status in the collegiate world.

SOFT-BALL LEAGUE

To the Editor of The Beacon:

Now that the interfraternity league has just completed a most successful season, it appears that Rhode Island State intra-murals will cease to function until next winter. There is no reason for any lay-off when there are a number of sports which can be played by a large number of men without requiring a great deal of ability.

Foremost among these is a game which has had very good results in some of the larger mid-western universities. Soft-ball baseball is now finding a place on the intra-mural programs of many schools and colleges. This game, although it is not as spectacular as the regulation game, is certainly as vigorous and entertaining. The advantages which it has over the "hard ball" game are many. First, there is no need of expensive equipment; gloves, catcher's paraphernalia, spiked-shoes, and other equipment are entirely unnecessary. All that are needed are a soft ball, retailing at about one dollar, a few light bats, and nine men who know a little about baseball. As the playing area is comparatively small, several games could be played about the campus at the same time. An outstanding feature of this game is the absence of injuries.

A league could operate in the same fashion as the basketball competition which is carried on here. With the extra hour of daylight in the spring there would be ample time to conduct a so-called "twilight league." This league would provide entertainment and recreation in those warm evenings in spring when no one cares to do any studying. Let's hope that this sport will be placed on our intra-mural program in order to provide a constructive form of exercise and recreation for the fraternities and other houses of the campus.

—B. R.

Bystander

I want to take this opportunity of wishing a hearty farewell to the outgoing staff of the "Beacon." Of course they have received the usual amount of criticism, but they have brought you several new features. (Need I say that it was this staff that brought you the thing known as the "Bystander?") Of course I don't have to say it; you are probably cursing them for it every time you pick up a "Beacon." But seriously speaking (if I can), I think that they have done a darn good job of it and only hope that the next staff does as well. The old staff now feels that they have a load off their minds; they won't be responsible for anything that might appear in the "Bystander," and if you don't think that is a load off our minds, just ask Jack Savran; he ought to know, for he is saving all the material he has cut out of this column for a special edition of his own. You know the title: "The Bystander In An Unexpurgated Edition." Boy, will that sell!!!

Somewhere in the dim past I said that I would pick out the coded (in my mind) who would make an ideal house-wife. Of course I had to use my imagination (did I hear someone say that that must have been hard work?) and try as I did, I finally came to the conclusion that I would like to come home and find someone like Madelyn Marks waiting for me.

I've often heard the remark "Give him a break," and that made me think of what occurred at the Brown-State basketball game. Everyone takes a "ride" at one time or another, but there is such a thing as knowing when to stop. My hat goes off to "Rocky." In spite of the "ride" he took about playing for the faculty in their "basketball-wrestling" game, he took it good naturedly and said that the article in the "Beacon" about it was good. (Good for what?) Imagine my surprise then when "Rocky" came to the game last week and was greeted with applause and cheers. If someone else on the faculty were to come to a game escorting a lady, he would not have so much attention directed at him. What perplexes me is why he should be the butt of it all. Perhaps those that cheered forgot that the lady might feel embarrassed, and after all, we are supposed to be ladies and gentlemen to our visitors. I think we ought to apply the remark in the first sentence of this paragraph, "Give him a break."

In the next issue of the "Beacon" I will attempt to pick out the coded (in my mind) who I think would make an ideal rumble-seat companion.

(Just a little closer please???)

I had a most enjoyable week-end. I saw a girl, who I once liked an awful lot and who made a fool out of me for a time. (I think that nature beat her to it.) Imagine my surprise when I felt no qualms, no quickened heart-beat or rapid pulse when I saw her. I guess that that saying about "absence makes the heart grow fonder" is all wet! (The above paragraph is for Providence readers only.)

I'm not being paid (although I wish I were) for mentioning this picture. Last week-end I saw "Topaze" starring John Barrymore. He gave his usually excellent performance and was assisted by Myrna Loy. Imagine my surprise when, in thinking over parts of the picture, I could not remember one scene when there had been a kiss. (They're cutting down on everything in this depression.)

After this past week in Kingston I'm reminded of that poem named "Boots," only let us substitute the word "Mud" instead of "Boots." Mud to the left of me. . . to the right of me. . . in front of me. . . 'n back of me. . . mud in my shoes. . . in my pants. . . on my books. . . mud—that's all there is on a rainy day; and so, that night last week I went out and. . . "here's mud in your eye."

Resolved: That the housing problem in the United States should be left to private initiative.

Debate pending with Mass. State College.

The Freshman schedule is not completed but an active one is anticipated. The Men's Varsity Squad will have two complete teams of three men each. Likewise, the women will have two complete teams on their squad. The women will be under the able direction of Miss Dickson. Mr. Rockafellow will be the faculty advisor for the men.

mittee will listen to the reports of the councils. The day's activities will end in a dinner dance, which will begin at 8 o'clock. On Saturday two assemblies will be held, one at 9 a. m. and the other at 2 p. m. In this latter assembly the delegates are to be addressed by an experienced observer from the New York Times, who will deliver a critical review.

In view of the fact that the Sino-Japanese crisis has been practically settled, as far as the committee of nineteen is concerned, the Colombian-Peru dispute, known as the "Leticia Dispute," in regard to the "Colombian Corridor," will be one of the two major political discussions. The other one, of course, concerns the Bolivia-Paraguay disturbance.

Assembled with students of 25 other New England Colleges, there is no doubt but that our delegates will return with a keener insight into international problems and with many interesting topics for debate here at our own college.

Rhody Defeats N. U.

the second half, Rhody held the lead although the last six minutes saw Martynick, Horseman and Donovan out on fouls. With the score standing at 31-29 and minutes left to play, Jackie Martin and Joe Speckman came through with two pretty baskets that ended the Huskies' rally. Eddie Cox made things certain with his running basket and foul shots in the dying moments of the game.

Church and Brown of Northeastern were constant threats throughout the game, the former scoring three successive baskets in the opening minutes of the game.

In the Freshman game the State team led 18-16 at half time but the attack of the Northeastern yearlings in the second half was too much for the Ramlets. Moore of the Northeastern team was outstanding with his 12 points, several of which were of the spectacular variety. Martin and Keaney for State accumulated 19 of their team's points between them with Martin playing a good defensive game.

"Chesterfields Satisfy"

WHEN smokers keep buying the same cigarette day after day... it's a pretty good sign that they're getting what they want... mildness, better taste—a smoke that's always the same.

So we're going right on making Chesterfields just as we always have... selecting choice, ripe tobaccos... ageing them... blending and cross-blending them... making them into cigarettes in the most scientific ways that are known.

As long as we do these things we know that smokers will continue to say, "They Satisfy". For that's what people are saying about Chesterfields.

If you smoke, why not find out about them? A package or two will tell you the whole story.

gathering, it was found that the more distant clubs were unanimous in favoring the noontime luncheon, but since by far the greater number of those attending the meeting come from Providence and nearby cities, where the sentiment was in favor of the evening gathering, the Executive Committee decided to give the new plan a try-out this year.

The Executive Committee consists of Lawrence A. Records, Greenville, President; Melvin H. Brightman, Providence, Vice-President; L. F. Kinney, Jr., Kingston, Secretary-Treasurer; Members at Large — Roland T. Pihl, North Dighton, Mass., Bertha I. Hughes, Providence, and Mrs. Ruth Smith Cory, of Providence.

RECEPTION ROOM

Mr. Coe has been the decorator of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Zeta and the President's residence. He has also done work for various members of the faculty.

Although the room was not opened until Feb. 24, accidents have already occurred. Nevertheless, Miss Peck feels that, because they realize the great expense involved, both girls of Davis Hall and their guests will exercise care and discretion in using the room.

At a meeting of the Nominating Committee of Women's Student Government held last Monday evening, the following women were selected as nominees for Student Council: Sophomores — Lynette Goggin, Jane Ebbs, Amy Janes, Barbara Souler, Louise Keeler and Ruth Silverman. Freshmen — Barbara Haley, Marjorie Law, Betty Thomas and Jean Randall.

There will be an opportunity for the women of the college to vote for these members withing the very near future.

Co-ed Rifle

Last Saturday, February 25, the R. I. State College Women's Rifle team competed against the co-eds of the Massachusetts State College and of Washington U. Our co-eds won the first match 487-479, but lost the second 500 to 487.

Miss Charlotte Waters turned in the best card for Rhody with a score of 99. Miss Ingeborg Carlson came in a close second with 98, while the Misses Eloise Fairchild and Ruth McCoy scored 97; Elinor Streeter and Anna Lockwood, 96; Maryarne McCaskey, 92 and Margaret Newman, 88.

Co-ed Major

Miss Pauline Coggeshall of Newport was chosen Co-ed Major for the coming year, succeeding Miss Marjorie Aspinwall, retiring Co-ed Major. The official announcement came in conjunction with the Military Ball, where an impressive ceremony took place.

Bottle, Licker, Glass, Stein, Pepper, Bass, Ales, although they sound like items on the shopping list of a night club hostess, are really nothing more than the names of some students who registered at Long Island University last semester.

ILLUSION:

Look at this remarkable lady... with three lovely and perfect heads... all attached to a normal body. She appears to sit on the stage, with the lower part of her body concealed by flowers. She can wink, smile, and nod. She can talk, laugh, and sing—all at the same time. Thousands of people have seen this feat of magic and pronounced it a wonderful sight!

EXPLANATION:

Audiences used to pay an extra fee to go behind the scenes to see how this trick was worked. They discovered that the three-headed woman was merely a reflection in a mirror. The glass showed the heads of three girls but the body of only one. The other two were cleverly hidden so that only their heads showed in the mirror.

It's fun to be fooled — ...it's more fun to KNOW

This "three-headed woman" trick goes way back to the early days of magic.

Also old is the suggestion that protection for your throat and freedom from coughing can be achieved through some magic trick.

THE EXPLANATION: The easiest cigarette on your throat is the cigarette that is made from the choicest, ripe tobaccos.

Cheap, raw tobaccos are, as you would naturally expect, harsh to the throat. Ripe, costly tobaccos are mild, mellow—gentle. The question is whether a cigarette is made from cheap tobacco or the more expensive grades.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

American men and women have smoked more billions of Camels than any other brand because of the appeal of more expensive tobaccos and matchless blending.

Won't you stack up your own experience with a cigarette made from milder, costlier tobaccos...against magic claims about "cigarettes and your throat"?

Try fresh Camels—in the air-tight, welded Humidor Pack that seals the freshness and coolness, the mildness and flavor of Camels...inside.
